About

I'm a generalist developer with a genuine curiosity for how things work, which keeps me comfortable moving across languages, stacks, and problem domains. Over more than a decade I've built tech solutions ranging from SaaS platforms and e-commerce systems to command-line tools, browser extensions, and CI/deployment pipelines. Lately my focus has been on SaaS solutions for both B2B and B2C products, AI integrations, DevOps, and hardware integrations, connecting APIs, microcontrollers, and scanners into practical business tools. I enjoy turning ambiguous problems into reliable, working software.
